Good Morning Eastwood Community Members!

It looks like today is going to get a little messy for parts of the commute. Unlike Tuesday, it will be snow instead of rain, but how much and how long varies depending on the forecast. We will be watching this particularly for dismissal and after school activities. It may be a slower drive home, and we will make sure kids receive instructions if needed and safe driving reminders. Stay tuned!

I have a couple of community based announcements to share with you.
